About the artist. . .

Tae Yeon Lim is known for her powerful performance style, combining energetic delivery with an intelligent touch. Originally from South Korea, she currently lives in Los Angeles, where she is active as a pianist and conductor. Revealing an early talent for music, she was selected as a soloist with the Sorisam Chamber Orchestra at age 11, performing Mozart’s Concert Rondo. She was also invited to perform in the prestigious Chosun Journal Young Artist Debut Series at Sejong Arts Hall in Seoul. She studied with the pioneering American pianist James Tocco and with Kumi Ogano at the Manhattan School of Music before earning a D.M.A. at USC’s Thornton School of Music, where her mentor was the renowned piano pedagogue Stewart Gordon. Her album of Joachim Raff’s complete music for cello and piano, on the British label Toccata Classics, includes the world premiere recording of his Sonata for Piano and Cello (Op. 183). Ms. Lim has performed solo recitals at the Richard Nixon Presidential Library and Museum, the Brand Library and Arts Center, and the Alhambra Performing Arts Center, among others. She has performed with orchestras in Beijing, Seoul, and particularly in Southern California, including the Los Angeles Sinfonietta and the Vicente Chamber Orchestra. A passionate chamber musician, she has collaborated with the Capitol Ensemble and many other musicians in the greater Los Angeles area and San Diego, in chamber music series such as Classical Sundays at Six, the Chamber Music Series at All Saints Beverly Hills, and Le Salon de Musiques. Ms. Lim has emerged not only as a pianist of note but also as a conductor, and she curates a chamber music series at St. Timothy Catholic Church in West Los Angeles, where she is music director/organist.

Next week...

Please join us February 4 at 6:00 pm, when Alexander Treger conducts the Crossroads School's EMMI Chamber Orchestra, performing Barber's Adagio for Strings, Elgar's Serenade for Strings, and Mozart's Eine kleine Nachtmusik, as part of our Emerging Artists Series.

Please visit GreatMusicLA.org for a listing of our 2023/24 season of free concerts and other musical events.
