About the Artist...

Hailed for his "solid technique... imaginative programming... tasteful creativity in registering orchestral textures" (AGO Charleston Chapter), Ryan Chan is recognized as a versatile musician specializing in organ and harpsichord. His passions for both early and contemporary repertoire, performance practice, historic/antique keyboards, experimentation and teaching define his musical identity. He has performed in notable venues including Freiberg Cathedral, Dresden Cathedral, St. Mark's Cathedral (Seattle, WA), Church of the Transfiguration (Orleans, MA) and Syracuse University (Syracuse, NY). He has been featured in festivals including Piccolo Spoleto L'Organo (Charleston, SC), Oberlin Baroque Performance Institute, Rochester Early Music Festival and Skaneateles Festival.

In September 2023, Ryan won second prize in the 16th International Gottfried-Silbermann Organ Competition held in Germany, making him the first Hong Kong/Chinese organist to place in this premier European competition. Other achievements include first prize of the 2018 Arthur Poister Organ Scholarship Competition, as well as finalist in the 2022 National Young Artists Competition in Organ Performance (American Guild of Organists). Upcoming engagements include solo recitals in Germany (Altenburg, Bremen, Dresden) and collaborative concerts in Rochester, NY.

At the Eastman School of Music, Ryan is pursuing a doctoral degree in organ under the tutelage of David Higgs. He holds a master's degree in harpsichord, studying with Lisa Goode Crawford. He served as the VanDelinder Organ Fellow at Christ Church Rochester from 2020-2023, working with music director Stephen Kennedy. He performs regularly with Eastman's Collegium Musicum, a baroque ensemble directed by Paul O'Dette and Christel Thielmann. Performance highlights at Eastman include two thoughtfully programmed candlelight concerts on the 1893 Hook & Hastings organ and the 1776 Casparini organ-replica (2008 GOArt/Yokota), along with a dazzling take on Bach's 'Brandenburg 5' and triple harpsichord concerto (BWV 1063).

Ryan is currently based in Rochester, New York, USA.
